Graduate Assistantship Opportunities

Graduate assistantship opportunities are available in most academic departments and administrative units at Emporia State University. Approximately 185 graduate assistantships (teaching, research, and administrative) will be awarded during the 2014-2015 academic year. Stipends for full-time assistantships, subject to availability of adequate funding, are $7,344.

To qualify for an assistantship, an applicant must have a minimum undergraduate grade point average of 2.5 or 2.75 on the last two years of undergraduate study, based on a 4.0 system, or 3.0 for at least 6 credit hours of graduate level course work. The minimum course load for an assistant is six credit hours per semester. Graduate assistantships for the purpose of a tuition waiver must be awarded on the basis of 20 hours worked per week. Non-resident full time graduate assistants are assessed fees at the in-state rate.

The Application For Graduate Assistantship and instructions for applying online can be found at http://www.emporia.edu/grad/graduateassistants/graduate-assistant-application.html.

Information about Emporia State University graduate assistantships and application materials can be found on the following pages. Emporia State University is an Equal Opportunity Employer
College of Liberal Arts and Sciences
Department of Biological Sciences

Graduate teaching and research assistantships are available for each academic year. Teaching assistants will be involved in the instruction of laboratory sections in the introductory level general biology, zoology, botany, microbiology, and human anatomy and physiology courses. Research assistants will be involved in research activities.

Qualifications
Those applying should possess a baccalaureate degree in the biological sciences or a related area from an accredited college or university with a minimum grade point average of 3.0. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply.

Salary and Length of Contract
An academic year stipend of $7,809 is available for full-time assistantships. Recipients of assistantships may be eligible for a fee reduction. All graduate assistants must be enrolled in a minimum of six credit hours, but might require seven credit hours if supported by financial aid.

Application Deadlines
Preference will be given to those who apply early. Application forms and other information can be found at http://www.emporia.edu/biosci/biology.htm or by contacting:

College of Liberal Arts and Sciences
Department of English, Modern Languages, and Journalism

The English program normally offers ten to fifteen teaching assistantships. Graduate teaching assistants generally teach two courses of Freshman Composition each semester.

Qualifications
Applicants should possess a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university and should have earned at least a 2.75 overall grade point average or a 3.0 in the major. Applicants with baccalaureate degrees in fields other than English are given full consideration. Appointments are made according to merit. Applicants must actively pursue the degree as full-time students throughout the duration of the assistantship.

Salary and Length of Contract
Contracts normally extend throughout the academic year. The base salary, subject to legislative funding, is approximately $7,344. Supplementary stipends are regularly provided from other departmental resources. All full-time graduate teaching assistants, resident or out-of-state, receive a full tuition waiver.

Applications should be received by February 15 in order to receive full consideration in the initial round of ten awards. These will be announced by April 1. Later applications will be considered as additional funding becomes available.

College of Liberal Arts and Sciences
Department of Mathematics and Economics

The Department of Mathematics and Economics has several teaching assistantships available in Mathematics for the academic year. Duties will involve teaching one or two mathematics classes under the supervision of one of the regular faculty members, and/or assisting in the Math Lab.

The Mathematics and Economics Department offers a Master of Science degree in Mathematics. Programs for this degree are designed for each individual student, who may take a concentration of courses in Algebra, Analysis, Topology or Statistics. One of the outstanding features of studying at Emporia State University is the close relationship between faculty and graduate students. A student is expected to develop a thorough understanding of mathematical principles, thus enabling a continuation of mathematical studies after receiving the degree.

Qualifications

The students will be expected to enroll in approximately nine hours of course work leading to a graduate degree.

Salary

The stipends will be approximately $7,809.

Application Deadline: March 1.

College of Liberal Arts and Sciences
Department of Music

Graduate Assistantships are available in Music. ESU offers the Master of Music degree with an emphasis in Music Education or Performance.

Duties
Duties may include conducting, assisting, and/or performing with other ensembles, teaching group or applied lessons, teaching lower level music courses, and/or other duties as needed by the department and that coincide with the interests and abilities of the candidate.

Qualifications
The successful candidate will be a motivated self-starter with an interest in music performance, pedagogy, and/or literature. Experience in teaching private or group lessons, or other ensembles will be taken into consideration. A Bachelor’s degree in music or music education is required.

Stipend
Graduate Music Teaching Assistants may receive a full tuition waiver and a stipend of up to $7,344.

Application
For fullest consideration, applications should arrive in the Graduate School by the 3rd Friday in February. For information, contact:

Graduate teaching and research assistantships are available in the physical sciences (chemistry, earth science, physics, and physical sciences) at Emporia State University. Four Master’s degree program concentrations exist: chemistry, earth science, physics, and physical sciences.

A graduate teaching assistantship recipient is responsible for helping with the instruction in undergraduate laboratory courses by aiding a professor with materials preparation, grading and in-laboratory assistance to students.

Graduate research assistantships, which involve the pursuit of research with a faculty mentor, are also available through internal or extramural (e.g., NASA) funded projects.

Qualifications
Applicants should have an undergraduate degree from an accredited college or university in one of the academic disciplines in the physical sciences and at least a 2.75 grade point average. Previous undergraduate experience as a laboratory assistant will strengthen the application for teaching assistantships.

Stipend and Duration of Contract
Typically assistantships extend throughout the academic year. The stipend for a full-time graduate assistantship is $7809 for an academic year, extramural grant-based assistantships may be higher. Tuition for those holding full-time graduate assistantships is waived (nearly $4200 for residents; $14,000 for non-residents); thus the monetary award value is considerably greater than the stipend. Some grant-based, full-time graduate research assistantships are about $8000.

Application Deadline
Applications should be completed by about March 15 for priority consideration; however, some assistantship awards are made later.

The Department of Social Sciences offers teaching assistantships to students in the History M.A. or Social Sciences M.A.T. programs. Graduate Teaching Assistants (GTAs) work with faculty teaching introductory courses in U.S. or world history, or on occasion courses in other disciplines such as geography or social sciences education. Assistantships may extend through the full academic year (fall and spring semesters) or for one semester only. The number of positions and the salary amounts are dependent on annual funding; currently the department has five openings per academic year.

Qualifications
GTAs must hold a bachelor’s degree (B.A., B.S., or B.S.E.) from an accredited college or university at the time they take up their duties. They must be admitted and enrolled full-time in either the History M.A. or Social Sciences M.A.T. program for the duration of their appointment.

Salary & Length of Contract
Contracts extending through the full academic year will be $7,344 for 2014–2015. GTAs receive a full tuition waiver for the semesters covered by their contract. GTAs with full time appointments will be eligible for health insurance through the university.

Applications for any part of the 2014-2015 academic year should be received in the Graduate School by February 1, 2014. Applications received after that date will be considered if open positions remain. For further information, contact:
