Starring: Penélope Cruz & Carmen Maura

Rated R; 121 minutes

Three women clean headstones in a graveyard while the dust from a seemingly eternal windstorm promises to undo their work. Raimunda and her sister are working on their parents' graves, but the third, Agustina, prepares a future spot for her own repose. She and Raimunda have a shared past. There is a murder and a body to dispose of, and the dead return, not to haunt but merely to get in the way of the living who remain remarkably unastonished at their presence.

Sponsored by an Academic Enhancement Grant, as well as funding from Multicultural Affairs, the Office of International Education, the Center for Student Involvement, Ethnic & Gender Studies, and the Department of Communication & Theatre.
