Book Summary

Knight Owl wants to be a knight. He went to knight school and learned that a lot of knights are disappearing during the night shift. He decided he was going to become a knight and do the night shift. One day he heard a whooshing noise in the distance. It was a dragon and the dragon wanted to eat Knight Owl. The Knight Owl offers the dragon a pizza instead. It turned out the dragon loves pizza and they became friends. A knight never went missing again. No matter how small you may be, you can accomplish big things.

Book Activity

Materials: Mirror(s), Mirror handouts, crayons/pencils/markers

Directions

After reading the book aloud, review the job description and responsibilities of the Knight Owl.

Ask the students to share what their dream job would be and why they would like to do that job. Ask them to explain the job description, skills, and responsibilities that they would need to do that job well.

Give each student a handout and have them draw/write about their dream job. Include words that explain the skills and responsibilities that will be needed to do the job well.

Students may share their pictures/writing with their group.

As an extension, you might invite guest speakers into the classroom to tell about the job that they do (related to the jobs the students have chosen). Students should have questions ready to ask the speakers to learn more about their dream job.
