This survey was sent to all students who had swiped in at any of the Orientation Events for 2013. We have included the questions about programs that were run specifically by Residential Life to include in this summary. There were only two Residential Life specific events that were a part of the Hornet Orientation, Towers Competition and First Floor Meetings.

Towers Competition Questions:
- 94.25% of residents agree that the Towers Competition helped them feel more connected to the students who live on their floor.
- 92.05% of residents agree that as a result of participating in the Towers Competition they are more likely to get involved with activities and events their RA plans for the floor.
- 95.35% of residents had fun at the Towers Competition.

Towers Competition comments (both positive and constructive):
- “It was a lot of fun and it was a great way to bond with my floor. I have nothing bad to say about the event”
- “It was a little crowded at the individual events, so spread them out more.”
- “=” They simply wrote a smiley face emoticon.

Students were asked to select, out of the the Orientation events they attended, the ones that were most valuable to them.
- Residence Hall Floor Meetings was voted the most valuable event.
- The Towers Competition was voted the 2nd most valuable event.
