The Graduate School has not adopted an official thesis style. Students should contact their advisor or department chair concerning the thesis style sheet or manual used by the department. A listing of thesis guides, by department, is included at the end of this booklet.

APPROVALS TO CONDUCT RESEARCH

Thesis projects require prior approval when either humans and/or vertebrate animals are being used as research subjects. Approval documentation must be included in the thesis. Application materials are available from the Research and Grants Office, located in Plumb Hall 313, or online at www.emporia.edu/research. Students should consult with their advisors about obtaining clearance from the following boards or committees:

1. Institutional Review Board for Treatment of Human Subjects. This board was established to enforce federal regulations enacted by the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare in 1976. It is the responsibility of the Board to determine those individuals serving as subjects not be placed "at risk due to their involvement in research projects." An individual is considered to be "at risk" if exposed to the possibility of injury, including physical, psychological, or social injury as a consequence of participation as a subject in any research, development, or related activity. A Human Subjects Training Module must be completed and a quiz taken and passed at 80% before research applications will be considered by the Institutional Review Board. Please contact the Research and Grants Office for information on IRB approval.

2. Institutional Animal Care and Use Committee. To assure compliance with the Public Health Service Policy (PHS) on Humane Care and Use of Laboratory Animals, the University has formed an Institutional Animal Care and Use Committee. An animal care and use Training module must be completed and a quiz taken and passed at 80% to receive approval from the Animal Care and Use Committee. It is the responsibility of the Committee to insure that all individuals involved in testing, research, and training with animals act in accordance with principles outlined by the PHS (http://ori.hhs.gov/federal-policies). Please contact Dr. Cathy Grover at 620-341-5813.

THESIS ADVISORY COMMITTEE

Each candidate writing a thesis must have the work supervised by an advisory committee. A department may also require an advisory committee for the supervision of research papers or projects which are part of a degree program. The candidate will select a chair of the thesis advisory committee in consultation with the candidate’s advisor. One member of the committee must be from outside the candidate's area of specialization. Students are required to complete and submit the Thesis and Dissertation Committee Declaration Form to the Graduate School the semester prior to completing the thesis or dissertation: http://www.emporia.edu/grad/docs/ThesisProposalForm.pdf
THESIS APPROVAL PROCESS

Candidates should confer with their major advisor regarding the role of the thesis committee in thesis approval. Each thesis must be carefully proofread and edited by the student, thesis advisor, and thesis committee for typographical errors, grammar, mechanics, style, citation/reference accuracy, and format before the thesis is submitted to the Graduate School. A copy of the completed thesis should be submitted to the advisor no later than six weeks before the day on which the degree is to be conferred. Requests for variations to the thesis requirements listed in this guidebook must be approved by the Dean of the Graduate School.

The final exam for a master’s student completing a thesis is the thesis defense. The chair of the thesis committee is responsible for setting up the defense date, time, and place and for communicating that information to the Graduate School at least one week in advance of the defense. After successfully defending the thesis and making all changes as requested by the department, the student will submit a copy with all departmental signatures to the Graduate School for review. Students have the option of submitting a printed draft to the Graduate School or an electronic Word document, sent as an attachment, to jspotswo@emporia.edu. A single copy of the thesis, approved by the department with all departmental signatures, is due in the Graduate School, ready for review by the Graduate Dean, according to the following schedule:

The Graduate School will review the submitted thesis for any additional changes that need to be made and return the thesis to the student for revision. It normally takes two weeks to review a thesis. After all edits have been made, the student will submit a final, signed hard copy of the thesis to the Graduate School and an electronic copy (pdf) as an attachment to jspotswo@emporia.edu. The electronic copy need not contain departmental signatures. Please save and submit the electronic thesis in pdf format.

The candidate must submit one unbound final copy of the thesis to the Graduate School. The cost for binding the required copy is $10. If personal copies are desired, students must provide one unbound copy for each personal copy requested. The cost for binding these copies is $25 plus applicable tax. These copies should be submitted by the candidate at the time the one copy required by the University is submitted.

PREFACE

A preface gives the reader an idea of the organization of a thesis. It may also contain a statement of the scope or of the general characteristics of research that has been done. In addition, the acknowledgment may be placed in the final paragraph of the Preface or may be inserted separately as illustrated above.
A thesis may contain different components than those listed below.

USE OF COPYRIGHTED MATERIALS

Students writing theses must be careful when using copyrighted materials not to violate the rights of copyright owners. Generally speaking, students may make limited use of short passages from copyrighted materials, if they give proper credit to the owner of the copyright. Extensive use of copyright materials, however, requires the permission of the copyright owner.

The use of tables, graphs, figures, or illustrations from a copyrighted work is not generally considered a limited use, and permission of the owner should be obtained before any of these are used in a thesis. Usually, the publisher can grant permission to quote excerpts from a copyrighted work; if not, the publisher can refer you to the owner of the copyright.

Permission is often granted to use copyrighted material in scholarly or educational works without any payment or compensation to the copyright owner. However, a copyright owner may charge for any permission granted. If permission is obtained, a letter of release from the copyright owner must be included in an appendix in the manuscript, and an acknowledgment of the copyright owner should be included in the acknowledgments preceding the thesis.

Plagiarism. Plagiarism in its purest form is copying entire passages or images, either verbatim or nearly verbatim, without directly acknowledging the source of these passages. Students found plagiarizing their thesis will be dismissed from the university and no degree will be awarded.

All scholars should keep in mind the following requirements:

1. When material is quoted, it is quoted exactly as it appears in the original, mistakes and all. Any additions, deletions, or alterations are clearly signaled by brackets or ellipses, as indicated in style manuals.

2. The acknowledgment of material quoted from or paraphrased from a single passage includes the page number(s) on which the passage appears in the original document.

3. Data not commonly available are never cited without a clear indication of their source.

4. Terminology or phraseology that is not common in literature is not used without proper acknowledgment.
